ECM2026 brings together leading experts from academia, industry, and clinical practice - alongside early-career researchers, clinicians, and pharmaceutical innovators — all working to advance the understanding and treatment of diseases driven by changes in the extracellular matrix. The program combines cutting-edge ECM science with clinical translation, bringing to life this year's theme: fresh ideas, bright science, and next-generation therapies.

a new era for ECM-targeted therapy

ECM2026 marks a turning point for the field of extracellular matrix biology and its role in human disease. With the first ECM-targeted therapies now emerging, the congress will spotlight the translation of scientific discovery into clinical innovation.

This year's program will bring together experts from diverse fields to share knowledge, foster new collaborations, and celebrate a new era where ECM research is delivering real-world impact for patients. The world is changing - and so is the future of therapy.

Key topics include multiorgan disease mechanisms, emerging therapies and novel approaches in fibrosis, cancer, and inflammatory conditions.

past congresses

ECM2022 and ECM2024 were outstanding successes, attracting over 450 participants from 30 countries. With more than 250 abstracts submitted, 40+ expert speakers, and support from over 30 sponsors, both events reflected a shared commitment to advancing our understanding of the extracellular matrix across a broad spectrum of diseases.

marketing strategy

At ECM2026, sponsor promotion is paired with high-impact congress visibility to engage a large, targeted audience.

We share regular updates and sponsor highlights with our international network via LinkedIn (1,600+ followers), Twitter and newsletters reaching nearly 5,000 professionals. Our website serves as the central hub for event and sponsor information.

Additionally, our webinar series keeps the audience connected year-round, featuring world-leading KOLs presenting on cutting-edge ECM pharmacology topics every 2–3 months, with each session drawing hundreds of registrants.

By partnering with ECM2026, your brand gains extensive, targeted visibility - while supporting a congress that consistently attracts a highly engaged and diverse audience.

sponsoring ECM2026

Full access to all congress areas

We actively encourage collaboration and knowledge exchange between academia and industry. To support this, exhibitor registration includes full access to all scientific sessions.

The congress presents a unique opportunity to showcase your leadership, demonstrate your support, and align your brand with the rapidly advancing landscape of ECM science and therapeutic innovation.

Sponsorship & exhibition

ECM2026 offers sponsors and exhibitors direct exposure to leading researchers from academia and industry, as well as clinicians and medical students specializing in ECM-related fields.

The commercial exhibition will run alongside the congress and remain open throughout. Strategically located near the auditoriums and catering areas, it maximizes delegate interaction. As a central part of ECM2026, the exhibition fosters meaningful exchange between academia and industry.
